

Panchenko L. To question of methodology and methods of conflict research

The article reveals the issues related to the training of future sociologists in the methodology and methods of conflict investigation. Particularly, the article analyzes some Master programs of the leading universities of the world. The article outlines quantitative methods used in the investigation of conflicts, and sources of on-line data on peace and conflict research.

Key words: methodology and methods of sociological research, conflict management, quantitative methods, qualitative methods, database of conflicts.